

B.C. Rich

GUITARS 1980

Introducing RICH BICH® Little Sister

- When B.C. Rich electric guitars were introduced in 1973, we took a chance on a completely new idea.
- The response has been overwhelming. So much, that in order to meet the demand for our instruments in the 1980's, we unveil our production line of B.C. Rich electrics.
- Available in Mahogany "BICH" body styling, the guitar is a six string and features 2 DiMarzio "Super Distortion" pickups, while the bass, a 4 string, uses 1 DiMarzio P-Bass pickup.
- The 22 fret neck is Maple with a Rosewood fingerboard and dot inlay.
- Standard hardware includes Leo Quan Badass Bridge and Grover machineheads.
- Colors include: Natural, Red, Cherry Sunburst, Dark Natural, Black, Blue Sunburst, Blue, Green and Tobacco Sunburst.

MOCKINGBIRD GUITAR

MOCKINGBIRD BASS

MOCKINGBIRD GUITAR SUPREME

Mockingbird Guitar and Bass

- A Rosewood fingerboard and diamond mother-of-pearl inlay set the Mockingbird aside from every other instrument you've played, the exotic body design certainly makes it that much more distinctive.
- "Without a doubt, the B.C. Rich range of electric guitars epitomizes the expression "Axe" when a musician refers to his or her guitar. The Mockingbird shape is especially reminiscent of a lethal medieval hatchet and is sensationally show stopping in appearance..."
- The standard version of the Mockingbird is available in Koa or Maple.

Mockingbird Guitar Supreme

- The Supreme version of the Mockingbird offers an Ebony fingerboard and Rosewood headplate bound in white, with mother-of-pearl cloud inlays.
- Either version qualifies as a triumph of craftsmanship.
- B.C. Rich guitars offer everything the discriminating musician will ever want from his or her "Axe."

EAGLE GUITAR

EAGLE BASS

EAGLE GUITAR SUPREME

Eagle Guitar and Bass

- The Eagle series features a different, though just as distinctive, body design than the Mockingbird.
- The first thing you'll notice about the Eagle is its light weight and its excellent balance and despite its light weight it doesn't feel flimsy.
- Eagle specifications are identical to those of the Mockingbird. These include the 24 fret fingerboard that is made practical by the one piece, heelless neck through the body construction, 18 $\frac{1}{2}$  nickel frets and an internal truss rod with access point located under a triangle on the head.
- Grover machineheads, Leo Quan Badass bridge, bone nut and Straplok System are standard on the Eagle, Mockingbird and Bich.

Eagle Guitar Supreme

- Notice the subtle headstock, its attractive Rosewood veneered face and stylish mother-of-pearl "R" inlay.
- On Maple bodies the head face is matched by parallel stripes of Rosewood. On Koa bodies the parallel stripes are Maple.
- Standard on Bich, Mockingbird and Eagles are specially wound, specially wired DiMarzio Pickups. Guitars are equipped with a PAF dual sound in the rhythm/neck position and a Super II dual sound at the bridge/lead position. The bass is equipped with 2 dual sound P-bass pickups.
- Both the Eagle and Mockingbird bass and guitar feature our "standard" electronic circuit. This includes master volume, preamp, six position varitone, phase switch and individual dual sound switches. The preamp provides a great boost in output and enhances the highs and lows, thickening the sound and giving more punch.

BICH DOUBLENECK BICH BICH BASS

The B.C. RICH "BICH" is our top of the line model.

- Truly a spectacular instrument.
- Due to its unique design the guitar can be used as both a 6 string and a 10 string. The "BICH" is available in either a Koa or Maple body, with a Maple neck and Rosewood fingerboard and headplate.
- "BICH" Bass features a thirty inch scale which can be used 8 string or 4 string. Available in Koa body and Maple neck with Rosewood fingerboard and headplate.
- Electronics feature master Volume, rhythm pickup volume, master tone, dual preamps, six position varitone, pickup selector, phase and dual sound switches.
- "BICH" Doubleneck is a 12 string/6 string with separate electronics for each neck. Available features are the same as the Rich "BICH," which include genuine mother-of-pearl cloud fingerboard inlay.

In the last twenty years we have handcrafted the finest guitars available to the professional musician.

In the beginning it was classical instruments of fine Brazilian Rosewood and beautiful Spruce tops. This led to the development of our renowned Flamenco guitars made of Cypress and Spruce.

In the 1960's as Folk, Jazz and Rock blossomed, the guitar proved itself to be an intricate part of "the Sound." Guitarists in all styles of music began calling Bernardo Rico. He responded by building a variety of special instruments to suit each individual need.

The late 1960's and early 1970's brought musicians the world around demanding a high quality steel string guitar. Once again Bernardo came true by designing the B.C. Rich dreadnaught "B" series. These include the "B-45," a six string with Brazilian Rosewood back and sides and Spruce top all outlined in Abalone.

As demand increased for the dreadnaught, a new burden was placed on Bernardo's shoulders.

"What about an electric?" became the question.

The answer: A new concept in electric guitars, the "Seagull." Its one piece heelless through the body neck allowed total access to the twenty-fourth fret and its self-contained electronics gave a variation of sounds never available before.

In the 1980's B.C. Rich will certainly cater to the needs of every musician, offering the same high quality and craftsmanship we've built our reputation on. Now it's your turn, go out and play a collector's item.
